Racial Myths and Masculinity in African American Literature Jeffrey B. Leak,2005 The portrayal of black men in our national literature is controversial complex and often contradictory In Racial Myths and Masculinity in African American Literature Jeffrey B Leak identifies some of the long held myths and stereotypes that persist in the work of black writers from the nineteenth century to the present intellectual inferiority criminality sexual prowess homosexual emasculation and cultural deprivation Utilizing Robert B Stepto's call and response theory Leak studies four pairs of novels within the context of certain myths identifying the literary tandems between them and seeking to discover the source of our culture's psychological preoccupation with black men Calling upon interdisciplinary fields of study literary theory psychoanalysis gender studies legal theory and queer theory Leak offers groundbreaking analysis of both canonical texts representing the call of the call and response dyad and texts by emerging writers representing the response including Frederick Douglass and Charles Johnson Ralph Ellison and Brent Wade Richard Wright and Ernest J Gaines and Toni Morrison and David Bradley Though Leak does not claim that the response texts are superior to the call texts he does argue that in some cases the newer work such as Charles Johnson's Oxherding Tale can address a theme or offer a narrative innovation not found in preceding texts such as Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass In these instances argues Leak the newer texts constitute not only a response to the call text but a substantial revision Leak offers the first in depth criticism of black masculinity in a range of literary texts In a final chapter he expands his discussion to the emerging field of black masculinity studies pointing to future directions for study including memoir film drama and others Poised on the brink of exciting new trends in scholarship Racial Myths and Masculinity in African American Literature is a flagship work enhancing the understanding of literary constructions of black masculinity and the larger cultural imperatives to which these writers are reacting
