At the heart of this book written by two highly experienced experts in the field is a fascinating project that captured diverse voices and experiences by parents children and other family members. Rachael Levy and Mel Hall deploy a rich and distinctive theoretical framework drawing on insights from literacy studies education and sociology. Family Literacies presents an account of shared reading practices in homes focusing attention on what motivates parents to read with their children as well as revealing what parents may need if they are to begin and sustain shared reading activity. The authors show the many ways in which reading is centrally embedded in many aspects of family life arguing that this has particular implications for children as they start school. Situated within a socio cultural discourse this book explains why it is important to understand how and why shared reading takes place in homes so that all families can be supported in reading with their children.
