Special Aging Populations and Systems Linkages M. Joanna Mellor,1996 Special Aging Populations and Systems

Linkages educates professionals working in geriatric settings about the needs and issues of several emerging special groups within today's aging population. It gives readers examples, guidelines and a theoretical framework for developing successful linkages between aging and non-aging service systems to meet the service needs of these special populations. By exploring the challenges and barriers faced by service systems attempting to work together, Special Aging Populations and Systems Linkages provides a blueprint to those working with cross-system interest groups, task forces and councils. The book informs readers of the epidemiology, issues and concerns of some specific populations of older persons, including persons with developmental disabilities, alcohol and substance abusers, cancer patients, persons with HIV/AIDS, the abused elderly, older caregivers. Chapters in this timely book provide treatment experiences with these special populations and with linking systems as case histories for the professional. These case histories help social workers understand the needs of special older people with whom they work and facilitate negotiations among service systems and agencies so that older people facing special challenges secure the help they and their families need. Special Aging Populations and Systems Linkages asserts the absolute imperative for social workers and other geriatric professionals to understand the subpopulations which make up the 65-plus cohort in the U.S. and fosters creative thinking about service organization and practice issues generated by the diversity of this population. Students at all levels of gerontology programs, staff in the aging network, service personnel, administrators and senior center directors, community service personnel, staff of Area Agencies on Aging, social workers in geriatric health care settings, public health educators and social workers in service agencies for each of the special populations (mental retardation, developmental disabilities, cancer care, HIV/AIDS, substance abuse, adult protective services, child welfare) can refer to Special Aging Populations and Systems Linkages for insight time and again as they strive to meet the diverse needs of the entire aging population.

in Small Towns and Rural Communities Lenard W. Kaye, Sandra Butler, 2012-10-12 Learn the skills you need to work with geriatric populations in rural areas. Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities provides a range of intervention and community skills aimed precisely at the needs of rural elders. This book fills a gap in the literature by focusing on the specific practice concerns for social workers assisting older adults in rural areas, including the aging experience, social worker skills, professional functions working with special populations and health and long term care concerns. This valuable resource will benefit social workers, gerontologists, allied health professionals in rural areas, health and human services administrators and managers. Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities explores the challenges social workers need to overcome when working with the elder community in rural areas. This book's significance to social workers will only increase as more adults choose to live and grow old away from the cities. Experts in the field suggest strategies to overcome barriers in planning and providing services such as a longer distance for the elderly to travel to use social service centers, a narrower range of available services in the local area, increased poverty levels for the elderly, a stronger dependency by elderly on family rather than public assistance. This book is divided into five sections: Rurality and Aging introduces the concept of rurality and examines the demographics of aging from a rural perspective. Practice Dimensions of Social Work with Rural Elders includes clinical practice models, intervention and advocacy techniques, program planning and marketing approaches. Special Populations gives attention to four special population groups: indigenous elders, African American older adults, elderly Latinos and disabled elders. Special Issues Pertaining to Rural Elders covers five essential issues for rural gerontological social workers: health promotion, older workers and retirement preparation, aging in place, specialized housing and ethical practice. Training and Policy Recommendations future training and education recommendations for social workers are explored as well as service capacity building, the aging network and the future of long term care. While a variety of theoretical perspectives are explored in Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities, the book's empowerment orientation and strengths based approach will enhance your abilities to improve quality of life for elderly individuals in rural communities. Each chapter contains a comprehensive review of the literature on the subject; it addresses and several chapters include tables and graphs to further establish their revealing empirical findings. An appendix provides additional sources to turn to for more information.

Fostering Social Work Gerontology

Competence Catherine J. Tompkins, Anita L. Rosen, 2013-12-19. Inspire the next generation of gerontological social workers. The growing number of people over the age of 65 in the United States has increased the demand for social workers who are trained to work with the elderly, a demand that is in danger of not being met. Fostering Social Work Gerontology Competence presents innovative techniques and strategies to help educators infuse aging content into their graduate and undergraduate curriculums in an effort to produce a new generation of social work practitioners who are up to the task of working with an older population. Recent surveys show that there has been a decline in the number of aging specialties and courses offered by schools of social work. Fostering Social Work Gerontology Competence offers a renewed focus on the promotion of gerontological social work education, presenting papers that grew out of the first National Gerontological Social Work Conference (NGSWC) held in 2003. This unique book is invaluable to anyone who educates future social workers, leads staff training sessions and/or teaches continuing education courses on aging. Leading gerontologists examine teaching research, community collaboration and social work competencies while focusing on special populations and issues including end of life care, elder abuse, grief counseling, cultural diversity, cultural competence and the effects of spirituality and social support on the well being of the elderly. Fostering Social Work Gerontology Competence examines curricular and organizational change.
