or popularly known as GIS has been developing its roots since the role of remote sensing has increased. It spreads its branches to civil engineering, geosciences, forestry, disaster mitigation, ecology, and environment and various other fields. The book explains the concepts of GIS in a simple language. Topics like development of GIS data structures, database concepts, map projections, requirement of hardware and software for implementing GIS, errors and removing errors, advanced analysis are a few to be named which find place in this book. From Paper Maps to Digital Spatial Analysis and Modelling

In the five years since the publication of the first edition of A Guide to Effective Map Design, cartography and software have become further intertwined. However, the initial motivation for publishing the first edition is still valid: many GISers enter the field without so much as one hour of design instruction in their formal education. Yet they are then tasked with creating one of the most effective and easily recognized communication tools: a map. See What's New in the Second Edition: Projection theory, Hexagonal binning, Big Data, point density maps, Scale dependent map design, 3D building modeling, Digital cartography and its best practices, Updated graphics and references, Study questions and lab exercises at the end of each chapter. In this second edition of a bestseller, author Gretchen Peterson takes a don't let the technology get in the way approach to the presentation, focusing on the elements of good design: what makes a good map and how to get there rather than specific software tools. She provides a reference that you can thumb through time and again as you create your maps. Copiously illustrated, the second edition explores novel concepts that kick start your pursuit of map making excellence. The book doesn't just teach you how to design and create maps; it teaches you how to design and create better maps. GIS Matt Duckham, Qian (Chayn) Sun, Michael F.

Worboys, 2023-07-30. Following two successful editions, the third edition of GIS: A Computing Perspective has been completely revised and updated with extensive new content reflecting the significant progress that has been made in the realm of GIS within the last 20 years. Major new topics covered for the first time in this edition include graph databases and graph query languages, ontology engineering, and qualitative spatial reasoning, geosensor networks, and GeoAI, decentralized computing, and online algorithms and critical GIS and data sovereignty. Features: Includes an entirely new chapter on AI and GIS, including ontologies and the Semantic Web, knowledge representation, KR, and spatial reasoning, machine learning and spatial analysis, and neural networks and deep learning. Presents new material reflecting the advances made in cloud computing, stream computing, and sensor networks, as well as extensively revised and updated content on cartography, visualization, and interaction design. Connects the technology to the social aspects and implications of GIS, including privacy and fair information practices FATE fairness accountability transparency and ethics and codes of conduct for responsible use of GIS Integrates the necessary background to foundational areas such as databases and data structures algorithms and indexes and system architecture and AI provided in context so readers new to those topics can still understand the concepts being discussed Incorporates over 20 carefully explained spatial algorithms over 60 inset boxes with in depth material that enriches the central topics and more than 300 color figures to support the reader in mastering key concepts Welcomes a new coauthor Qian Chayn Sun to the third edition who brings her expertise in topics such as web mapping cloud computing critical geography and machine learning with big spatial data Intended for anyone interested in understanding GIS especially students taking upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in computer science and geography as well as academics researchers practitioners and professionals working in the field and involved in advanced GIS projects
