Global South Youmen Chaaban, Abdellatif Sellami, Igor Michaleczek, 2024-11-14 This edited book gives voice to previously unheard narratives on wellbeing in higher education and provides novel implications for higher education policy and practice. Offering contextually sensitive and culturally responsive perspectives, the book problematizes wellbeing in higher education as it is currently theorized in the Global North, bringing to the fore perspectives and multi-disciplinary insights from the Global South region. Chapters present an alternative conceptualization of wellbeing in higher education based on stories, perceptions, and experiences of university students, faculty, and leaders from the Global South region, challenging a reductionist view of wellbeing and embracing its complexity, multi-dimensionality, and context sensitivity. The authors present an alternative non-Western approach to thinking, researching, and doing wellbeing in higher education, offering clear guidelines to support teachers, educational researchers, and leaders in fostering a more holistic teaching and learning experience. This volume will stimulate policy development and enactment as well as university-wide interventions and practices that can make a difference in the lives of students in higher education.

In Search of Wonderful Ideas Mary Kay Delaney, Susan Jean Mayer, 2021 Drawing on the work of Eleanor Duckworth, the authors examine critical exploration in the classroom, a student-centered learning approach that Duckworth developed, herself drawing on the work of Jean Piaget. For the authors, such teaching and learning relies upon teachers' developed knowledge, skills, and wisdom in the practices of intentional listening, observing, and sensitive question posing, and on their ability to conduct open and materials-based intellectual explorations with a diverse array of students. The complex work that the authors outline has grown less visible within programs of teacher education and in classrooms as other interests prevail. Challenges like edTPA and standards-based instruction. The authors make a case for critical exploration within programs of teacher education and demonstrate across chapters the ways in which such an approach may manifest itself within and across disciplinary domains.

Education and the Arab Spring Hannah R. Gerber, 2016-07-15 Education and the Arab Spring: Resistance, Reform, and Democracy explores the current debate about education in the Middle East and North Africa post-Arab Spring. It draws from a variety of conceptual frameworks rooted in different disciplines and fields such as education, religious and cultural studies, political science, and Arab studies. The book is in part a response to an increased demand since the Arab Spring by universities, cultural institutions, think tanks, education officials, policymakers, and journalists for a richer, deeper understanding of the role of education in post-Arab Spring states and societies. The book adds a unique and much-needed perspective to this field; its specific focus is on the Arab context, and its analysis is of issues of particular relevance to a changing world order. The great mix of experiences of the contributors attests to the excellent quality of this promising work. It is not infrequent to hear sweeping but general criticisms of all aspects of educational systems in the Arab world, everything from textbooks to teaching methodologies have come under scrutiny. The authors of this collection seek to move the debate beyond generalities by providing detailed studies while informed by a sense of the inadequacy of existing systems; they also provide an empirically rich analysis of existing systems Nathan Brown George Washington University USA Current Index to Journals in Education ,2002      Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,2003      The Nation ,1891
