DeSanto,2013-11-11 This Topics volume is devoted to a study of sound propagation in the ocean The effect of the interior of the ocean on underwater sound is analogous to the effect of a lens on light The oceanic lens is related as in light propagation to the index of refraction of the medium The latter is given by the ratio of the sound frequency to the speed of sound in water typically about 1500 m/s It is the variation of the sound speed due to changing temperature density salinity and pressure in the complex ocean environment which creates the lens effect Many oceanic processes such as currents tides eddies circulating translating regions of water and internal waves the wave like structure of the oceanic density variability contribute in turn to the changes in sound speed The net effect of the ocean lens is to trap and guide sound waves in a channel created by the lens The trapped sound can then propagate thousands of miles in this oceanic waveguide In addition to the propagation in the interior of the ocean sound can propagate into and back out of the ocean bottom as well as scatter from the ocean surface Just as the sound produced by a loudspeaker in a room is affected by the walls of the room so the ocean boundaries and the material properties below the ocean bottom are essential ingredients in the problem      The Cumulative Book Index ,1908 A world list of books in the English language      The Bookseller ,1894      Amendment No. 8 Cripple Creek & Victor Gold Mining Company,2000      Mechanical Engineering American Society of Mechanical Engineers,1947      British Books in Print ,1985      Catalogue of Books Arranged by Subjects Library Board of Western Australia,1966      Subject Guide to
