Strengths-Based Nursing Care Laurie Gottlieb,2012-08-22 Print CourseSmart Positive Psychology and Positive Education in Asia Ronnel B. King,Imelda Santos Caleon,Allan B. I. Bernardo,2023-10-24 This book explores students and teachers well being from positive psychology and education perspectives and showcases interventions that optimize well being in the school context The book also covers crucial positive psychology and education topics themes including character strengths gratitude growth mindset grit resilience positive emotions and well being among others The chapters include reviews and empirical research based on diverse methodologies such as correlational experimental quasi experimental intervention longitudinal and qualitative approaches from six different Asian sociocultural contexts Singapore Hong Kong Mainland China Israel Macau and Philippines All the chapters provide practical pointers for teachers and educators who aim to nurture well being in schools Stop Seeking Approval Dolorez Hart, In a world where external validation often dictates self worth the relentless quest for approval can become a consuming force This pursuit seemingly innocuous subtly infiltrates our daily decisions relationships and even our sense of identity It is a cycle that perpetuates anxiety self doubt and a profound disconnect from our true selves This book seeks to illuminate the path to breaking free from the shackles of people pleasing encouraging a shift toward self acceptance and authenticity At its core the need for approval is deeply rooted in our evolutionary past where belonging to a group was essential for survival However in contemporary society this instinct can manifest as an overwhelming desire to satisfy others at the expense of our own needs and desires This behavior can lead to a life dictated by the expectations and opinions of others leaving little room for personal growth and fulfillment Through insightful exploration and practical guidance this book delves into the psychological underpinnings of approval seeking behavior It examines how societal pressures cultural norms and personal experiences shape our need for validation and how these influences can be unlearned It challenges readers to confront their fears of rejection and judgment offering strategies to cultivate a mindset rooted in self compassion and confidence As readers navigate through the pages they will encounter real life stories and exercises designed to foster introspection and growth These elements aim to empower individuals to redefine their relationships with themselves and others moving toward a life that prioritizes genuine connections over superficial acceptance This book is not merely a guide but an invitation to rediscover the power of self approval It encourages readers to prioritize their well being make choices aligned with their true values and ultimately live a life that is authentically their own Through this journey the liberating realization emerges true freedom lies not in the approval of others but in the acceptance of oneself Indian Economy and Socio-economic Transformation S. N. Misra,2004 The Book Is An Amalgam Of Theoretical Analysis And Compelling Reality Divided Into 3 Sets Section I Relates To Human Development Poverty And Empowerment Section Ii Relates To Economic Reforms And Their Impact On Indian Economy And Section Iii Covers Strategy Of Development And Its Sustainability Useful For All That Interested In Latest Developments In Indian Economy

New Scientist ,2008-07 Telemonitoring in Diabetes Care

Management Marco ZEIMET,2005-08-06 Master s Thesis from the year 2004 in the subject Health Miscellaneous grade 74 100 Grade A First Class Brunel University DISC Department of IS and Computing course Master of Science Course at Brunel University London language English abstract Topic Area and Motivation Chronic disease care management in diabetes type II patients living at home and supported by telemonitoring equipment has proven to be both working and useful while adding health value from a clinical perspective Managerial decisions need however to be based on quantified cost estimations The challenge today is to show in which patient groups positive cost benefit results can be obtained by the use of telemedicine equipment The problem statement While numerous studies have shown clinical value and economical benefit separately there is a need to identify the cost benefit ratios applicable to different diabetic patient groups with varying risk levels The investment costs in expensive telemonitoring equipment need to be compared to associated clinical benefits obtained in the medium and long term timeframe The interest relevance and importance of the study lays in the cost estimating of care interventions provided to diabetes patient following care pathways in home care settings While similar work has been undertaken in the acute care settings with start end pathways the cost estimation of the diabetes follow up is challenged by a recurring loop back care pathway Aims and hypothesis While it is assumed that the use of telemedicine equipment and related care intervention costs are compensated by a reduction in complications and related health care costs the aim of the study is to provide a simple model for cost benefit analysis Methods Workload evaluation methods are used to cost estimate and cost quantify identified care pathway variables The resulting cost information is then used as input data in a simple microsimulation model Microsimulation is designed to identify the target group of instable diabetic patients for whom the use of telemedicine supported monitoring would produce both clinical added value and be cost effectiveness as compared to the conventional care delivery model Results The microsimulation model is producing a breakeven point cost benefit levels reached over determined periods of time thus identifying parameters about which patient profiles can be cost beneficially used for the telemedicine modality
