A Cultural Map: National Basketball Association

Introducing the Map

Survey the students as find out how many watch professional basketball. Ask students as many as many National Basketball Association (NBA) teams as they can. Teachers will probably be able to name quite a few, but will they be able to locate them on a map?

Show each student that a cultural map can show them just that. Discuss the kinds of things that are shown on a cultural map. Then show students the map of the United States and part of Canada. They should recognize that this is a cultural map, since it focuses on a national game of many people. The map shows the location of the NBA teams in North America. The NBA consists of 30 teams divided into two conferences—the Eastern and the Western. In the Eastern Conference, there are 15 teams. The Eastern teams are divided into three divisions—Atlantic (3 teams), Central (3 teams), and Southeast (3 teams). In the Western Conference, there are 15 teams. The 15 teams are divided into three divisions—Northwest (3 teams), Southwest (3 teams), and Pacific (3 teams).

Each team plays an 82-game schedule. After the regular season ends, the eight teams in each conference with the best records qualify for the playoffs. The playoffs first determine the conference champions. The conference champions then meet in a best-of-seven series for the league championship.

Read the list of teams in the index. Tell students the teams are listed in alphabetical order. Have students notice that the numbers on the index correspond to the numbers on the map. Most teams are named after the city in which they play. General are not, as the cities in which they play are included in parentheses.

The team names are not given on the map, so students will have to use their mental map skills. You may choose to give students a political map of the United States for reference. You may also want to research which teams belong to which conference and division for further study.

Introducing Vocabulary

cultural map: a map that shows patterns of ethnic groups, religious practices, language spoken, educational levels, and recreational choices culture: language, beliefs, traditions, arts and crafts, political systems, and technologies of a group of people
