Student truly understand dichotomous keys when they make their own!

Gr.7-12

CREATING A DICHOTOMOUS KEY

DIRECTIONS: Create a dichotomous key to identify all of the above organisms below.

PROCEDURE:

1. Study the above illustrations of these organisms, using the following dichotomous key to identify them. Decide which characteristics are the best to use in separating them into two groups. Use the characteristics in the dichotomous key to separate the organisms into two groups. Then use the characteristics in the second level of the key to further separate the two groups into two more groups. This uses the concept of multiple levels of classification. This is the way that dichotomous keys are used in the field. This is the way that dichotomous keys are used in the field.
2. The remaining seven animals in the key, constructed and developed along the lines of the above, should be used to identify the remaining animals on the following worksheet. This is the way that dichotomous keys are used in the field.
