International Tables for Crystallography, Volume G Sydney Hall, Brian McMahon, 2005-10-07 International Tables for Crystallography is the definitive resource and reference work for crystallography and structural science. Each of the volumes in the series contains articles and tables of data relevant to crystallographic research and to applications of crystallographic methods in all sciences concerned with the structure and properties of materials. Emphasis is given to symmetry, diffraction methods and techniques of crystal structure determination and the physical and chemical properties of crystals. The data are accompanied by discussions of theory, practical explanations and examples, all of which are useful for teaching. Volume G deals with methods and tools for organizing, archiving and retrieving crystallographic data. The volume describes the Crystallographic Information File (CIF), the standard data exchange and archival file format used throughout crystallography.

The volume is divided into five parts: Part 1: An introduction to the development of CIF; Part 2: Details, concepts and specifications of the files and languages; Part 3: Discusses general considerations when defining a CIF data item and the classification and use of data; Part 4: Defines all the data names for the core and other dictionaries; Part 5: Describes CIF applications including general advice and considerations for programmers. The accompanying software includes the CIF dictionaries in machine readable form and a collection of libraries and utility programs. Volume G is an essential guide for programmers and data managers handling crystal structure information and provides in-depth information vital for recording or using single crystal or powder diffraction data in small molecule, inorganic and biological macromolecular structure science. More information on the series can be found at <http://it.iucr.org>

Machine Learning: Theory and Applications, 2013-05-16 Statistical learning and analysis techniques have become extremely important today given the tremendous growth in the size of heterogeneous data collections and the ability to process it even from physically distant locations. Recent advances made in the field of machine learning provide a strong framework for robust learning from the diverse corpora and continue to impact a variety of research problems across multiple scientific disciplines. The aim of this handbook is to familiarize beginners as well as experts with some of the recent techniques in this field. The Handbook is divided in two sections: Theory and Applications, covering machine learning, data analytics, biometrics, document recognition and security. Very relevant to current research challenges faced in various fields. Self-contained reference to machine learning. Emphasis on applications oriented techniques.

Sparse Representations and Compressive Sensing for Imaging and Vision Vishal M. Patel, Rama Chellappa, 2013-02-11 Compressed sensing or compressive sensing is a new concept in signal processing where one measures a small number of non-adaptive linear combinations of the signal. These measurements are usually much smaller than the number of samples that define the signal. From these small numbers of measurements, the signal is then reconstructed by a non-linear procedure. Compressed sensing has recently emerged as a powerful tool for efficiently processing data in non-traditional ways. In this book we highlight some of the key mathematical insights underlying sparse representation and compressed sensing and illustrate the role of these theories in classical vision imaging and biometrics problems Human Centered Computing Qiaohong Zu,Bo Hu,Ning Gu,Sopheap Seng,2015-03-03 This book constitutes revised selected papers from the refereed proceedings of the First Human Centered Computing Conference HCC 2014 that consolidated and further develops the successful ICPCA SWS conferences on Pervasive Computing and the Networked World The 54 full papers and 30 short papers presented in this volume were carefully reviewed and selected from 152 submissions These proceedings present research papers investigating into a variety of aspects towards human centric intelligent societies They cover the categories infrastructure and devices service and solution data and knowledge and community
