American Literary Magazines Edward E. Chielens, 1992-08-24 The history of modern American literature is inextricably tied to the history of the literary magazine Conversely in the individual histories of these magazines can be gleaned highlights of literary activity and insights on the writers and editors in the forefront The literary magazines of the twentieth century most of them known as littles because of small budgets and circulation and short lives number in the thousands Some like the venerable New Yorker have enjoyed wide circulation for well over half a century others like The Fugitive published in Nashville Tennessee in the early 1920s were regional and or experimental and short lived Of these thousands editor Edward E Chielens has selected seventy six of the most significant for description and analysis in individual historical essays An additional one hundred magazines are briefly profiled in an appendix Forty three scholars and writers contributed to this volume Following the pattern established in Chielens s earlier complementary volume American Literary Magazines The Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries the magazine essays also provide appended data on information sources and publishing history The volume introduction discusses the characteristics of different types of literary magazines in the twentieth century and their sponsoring organizations or individuals as well as the influence on their development of leading literary figures such as Ezra Pound and H L Mencken This discussion is bolstered by a chronological appendix to the volume presenting highlights in the history of literary magazines in the perspective of events in literary history An additional appendix provides a directory of major collections of literary magazines in the United States and Canada with descriptions of their holdings
