Dialogi Oxford Classical Texts:

Dialogues and Essays Seneca, 2007-10-11 No man is crushed by misfortune unless he has first been deceived by prosperity In these dialogues and essays the Stoic philosopher Seneca outlines his thoughts on how to live in a troubled world Tutor to the young emperor Nero Seneca wrote exercises in practical philosophy that draw upon contemporary Roman life and illuminate the intellectual concerns of the day They also have much to say to the modern reader as Seneca ranges widely across subjects such as the shortness of life tranquillity of mind anger mercy happiness and grief at the loss of a loved one Seneca's accessible aphoristic style makes his writing especially attractive as an introduction to Stoic philosophy and belies its reputation for austerity and dogmatism This edition combines a clear and modern translation with an introduction to Seneca's life and philosophical interests and helpful notes ABOUT THE SERIES For over 100 years Oxford World's Classics has made available the widest range of literature from around the globe Each affordable volume reflects Oxford's commitment to scholarship providing the most accurate text plus a wealth of other valuable features including expert introductions by leading authorities helpful notes to clarify the text up to date bibliographies for further study and much more

Ancient Ethics Susan Sauvé Meyer, 2007-11-13 This is the first comprehensive guide and only substantial undergraduate level introduction to ancient Greek and Roman ethics This book maps the foundations of ethical thought which is crucial knowledge across the disciplines for a wide variety of readers The Therapy of Desire Martha C. Nussbaum, 2013-06-06 The Epicureans Skeptics and Stoics practiced philosophy not as a detached intellectual discipline but as a worldly art of grappling with issues of daily and urgent human significance In this classic work Martha Nussbaum maintains that these Hellenistic schools have been unjustly neglected in recent philosophic accounts of what the classical tradition has to offer By examining texts of philosophers such as Epicurus Lucretius and Seneca she recovers a valuable source for current moral and political thought and encourages us to reconsider philosophical argument as a technique through which to improve lives Written for general readers and specialists The Therapy of Desire addresses compelling issues ranging from the psychology of human passion through rhetoric to the role of philosophy in public and private life

Be a Perfect Man Andrew J. Romig, 2017-08-28 The life of an aristocratic Carolingian man involved an array of behaviors and duties associated with his gender and rank an education in arms and letters training in horsemanship soldiery and hunting betrothal marriage and the virile production of heirs and the masterful command of a prominent household In Be a Perfect Man Andrew J. Romig argues that Carolingian masculinity was constituted just as centrally by the performance of caritas defined by the early medieval scholar Alcuin of York as a complete and all inclusive love for God and for fellow human beings flowing from the whole heart mind and soul The authority of the Carolingian man depended not only on his skills in warfare and landholding but also on his performances of empathy devotion and asceticism Romig maps caritas as a concept rooted in a vast body of inherited Judeo Christian and pagan philosophies shifting in meaning and association from the patristic era to the central Middle Ages Carolingian discussions and representations of caritas served as a discourse of power a means by which early medieval writers made claims both explicit and implicit about the hierarchies of power that they believed ought to exist within their world During the late eighth ninth and early tenth centuries they creatively invoked caritas to link aristocratic men with divine authority Romig gathers conduct handbooks theological tracts poetry classical philosophy church legislation and exegetical texts to outline an associative process of gender ideology in the Carolingian Middle Ages one that framed masculinity asceticism and authority as intimately interdependent The association of power and empathy remains with us to this day Romig argues as a justification for existing hierarchies of authority privilege and prestige

The Scriptorium and Library at Monte Cassino, 1058-1105 Francis Newton, 1999-04-29 In all the history of hand written books one of the most distinctive and handsome scripts is that of the abbey of Monte Cassino This study examines for the first time in detail the development of this script during the Abbey's greatest period of wealth and influence under Desiderius abbot 1058 1087 and his successor Oderisius abbot 1087 1105 The characteristic Cassinese hand was established long before but in this period it was transformed into what is today considered its classic form The present study rests on a fresh examination of many details of the Beneventan South Italian script in aspects incompletely studied before It aims to provide a new history of Monte Cassino as a writing centre and to offer a context for many unique or valuable texts manuscripts that it processed

Brundage, 2004 This latest collection of studies by James Brundage deals with the emergence of the profession of canon law and with aspects of its practice in the period from the 12th to the 14th centuries Substantial numbers of lawyers systematically trained in canon law first appeared in Western Europe during the second half of the 12th century and in the 13th they began to dominate the hierarchy of the Western church By 1250 canon law had grown into something more than a profitable occupation it had become a recognizable profession in the strict meaning of the term as it is still used today Particular topics are the canonists system of legal ethics the education and training of canon lawyers in university law faculties and some fundamental features of the professional practice of canon law both in medieval Europe and in the crusading states of the Levant The Classical

Outlook, 1984 Harper's Dictionary of Classical Literature and Antiquities Harry Thurston Peck, 1897 Man, Soul, and Body John M. Rist, 1996 This second set of papers by John Rist is concerned with attempts by mostly pagan thinkers in Greco Roman antiquity to understand the nature of morality against a background of wide ranging debate about the relationship between soul and body and the necessity for a correct psychology and physiology if the good life for man is to be revealed Three papers are on Plato whose elaborate mix of ethics psychology and metaphysics sets the stage for most of the debate one is on Aristotle five are on the Stoics and five on Plotinus A further study deals with the general problem of the relationship between ethics cosmology and biology and the series concludes with the crisis among both pagans and Christians in late antiquity over whether man is naturally good enough to correct his own moral weakness The set of difficulties recognised by Plato has now found a disturbing conclusion List of Books Relating to Philosophy New York Public Library, 1908
