Canada's National System of Innovation Jorge Niosi,2000-04-18 Niosi looks at the history of Canada s National System of Innovation NSI particularly during the post war period illuminating the fact that during and after World War II over 30 research universities 150 government laboratories and dozens of government policies aimed at nurturing innovation in private firms academia and government organizations were developed He uses data obtained through questionnaire responses from all the large research and development organizations in Canada to analyse Canada s domestic system of innovation finding increasing collaboration between universities government laboratories and private firms He concludes that Canada has been quite successful in creating a national system of innovation and that the federal government through its initiatives and innovative techniques has been the main factor in the creation of this system Canada's Regional Innovation System Jorge Niosi,Tomas Gabriel Bas,Majlinda Zhegu,2005 Regional innovation systems Jorge Niosi shows are evolutionary complex systems in which each group of agents reacts to the behaviour of others as well as to public policy incentives Canada s Regional Innovation System finds that Canada s biotechnology capabilities are widely distributed but solidly planted in Toronto Montreal and Vancouver with smaller centres in Calgary and Edmonton However the specific institutional structures innovative firms research universities and public laboratories of regional systems vary from one industry to another and evolve through time While aerospace and aircraft form two poles in Montreal and Toronto Ottawa is Canada s centre for semiconductor and telecommunication innovation Niosi explores how these regional configurations are shaped by national and provincial public policy incentives The study is based on patent and company information as well as aggregate figures from Statistics Canada and other sources Local and Regional Systems of Innovation John de la Mothe,Gilles Paquet,2012-12-06 In an era of intense globalization the critical role of the region as a center for economic development has sometimes been overlooked Moreover innovation is increasingly being recognized as being a critical driver of economic growth and development However innovation is no longer being seen as a function of research and development nor is R D being seen as being sufficient for the creation of technology intensive industries and the valuable economic spillovers that result in high value added jobs and exports Indeed much more than ever before it is the combination of factors that contributes to innovation ranging over skills finance production user producer linkages the capacity of organizations to learn and multilayered government policies that make local regions the favorites of fortune Using an evolutionary economic perspective and drawing on a range of disciplines and accomplished scholars Local and Regional Systems of Innovation explores important issues at a conceptual methodological and comparative level concerning how successful locations actually construct their comparative advantage How Ottawa Spends, 2010-2011 G.
