Canadian Missionaries Indigenous Peoples Representing Religion At Home And Abroad:

Canadian Missionaries, Indigenous Peoples Alwyn Austin, Jamie S. Scott, 2005-01-01 Christian missions and missionaries have had a distinctive role in Canada's cultural history. With Canadian Missionaries Indigenous Peoples, Alwyn Austin and Jamie S. Scott have brought together new and established Canadian scholars to examine the encounters between Christian Roman Catholic and Protestant missionaries and the indigenous peoples with whom they worked in nineteenth and twentieth century domestic and overseas missions. This tightly integrated collection is divided into three sections. The first contains essays on missionaries and converts in western Canada and in the arctic. The essays in the second section investigate various facets of the Canadian missionary presence and its legacy in east Asia, India, and Africa. The third section examines the motives and methods of missionaries as important contributors to Canadian museum holdings of artefacts from Huronia, Kahnawaga, and Alaska, as well as China and the South Pacific. Broadly adopting a postcolonial perspective, Canadian Missionaries Indigenous Peoples contributes greatly to the understanding of missionaries not only as purveyors of western religious values but also as vehicles for cultural exchange between Native and non-Native Canadians, as well as between Canadians and the indigenous peoples of other countries.

White Mother to a Dark Race Margaret D. Jacobs, 2009-07-01 In the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, indigenous communities in the United States and Australia suffered a common experience at the hands of state authorities: the removal of their children to institutions in the name of assimilating American Indians and protecting Aboriginal people. Although officially characterized as benevolent, these government policies often inflicted great trauma on indigenous families and ultimately served the settler nations' larger goals of consolidating control over indigenous peoples and their lands. White Mother to a Dark Race takes the study of indigenous education and acculturation in new directions in its examination of the key roles white women played in these policies of indigenous child removal. Government officials, missionaries, and reformers justified the removal of indigenous children in particularly gendered ways by focusing on the supposed deficiencies of indigenous mothers, the alleged barbarity of indigenous men, and the lack of a patriarchal nuclear family. Often they deemed white women the most appropriate agents to carry out these child removal policies. Inspired by the maternalist movement of the era, many white women were eager to serve as surrogate mothers to indigenous children and maneuvered to influence public policy affecting indigenous people. Although some white women developed caring relationships with indigenous children, and others became critical of government policies, many became hopelessly ensnared in this insidious colonial policy.

□□□□ The Taiwanese Making of the Canada Presbyterian Mission Mark A. Dodge, 2021-04-06 The Taiwanese Making of the Canada Presbyterian Mission explores the Canadian Presbyterian Mission to Northern Taiwan, 1872-1915. The Canada Presbyterian Mission has often been portrayed as one of the nineteenth century's most successful missions, and its founder, George Leslie Mackay, has been called the most successful Protestant Missionary of all time. Mark Dodge challenges the heroic narrative by exploring the motives and actions of the

Taiwanese actors who supported and established the mission Religious leaders teachers doctors and businessmen from Northern Taiwan collaborated to build a strong and vital mission whose phenomenal success brought fame and status to Mackay and their cause In turn this status provided a protective space in which these Taiwanese patrons were able to exert significant economic and political autonomy in spite of pressures from competing colonial interests This book will be of particular interest to students and historians of nineteenth century East Asia as well as scholars of comparative colonialism with a focus on missionary history and cultural colonialism

Christian Missions and Humanitarianism in The Middle East, 1850-1950 ,2020-09-07 From the early phases of modern missions Christian missionaries supported many humanitarian activities mostly framed as subservient to the preaching of Christianity This anthology contributes to a historically grounded understanding of the complex relationship between Christian missions and the roots of humanitarianism and its contemporary uses in a Middle Eastern context Contributions focus on ideologies rhetoric and practices of missionaries and their apostolates towards humanitarianism from the mid 19th century Middle East crises examining different missionaries their society s worldview and their networks in various areas of the Middle East In the early 20th century Christian missions increasingly paid more attention to organisation and bureaucratisation rationalisation and media became more important to their work The volume analyses how non missionaries took over to a certain extent the aims and organisations of the missionaries as to humanitarianism It seeks to discover and retrace such entangled histories for the first time in an integral perspective Contributors include Beth Baron Philippe Bourmaud Seija Jalagin Nazan Maksudyan Michael Marten Heleen L Murre van den Berg Inger Marie Okkenhaug Idir Ouahes Maria Chiara Rioli Kar ne Sanchez Summerer Bertrand Taithe and Chantal Verdeil

Nanna Katrine Lüders Kaalund,2021-05-11 Science in the Arctic changed dramatically over the course of the nineteenth century when early scattered attempts in the region to gather knowledge about all aspects of the natural world transitioned to a more unified Arctic science under the First International Polar Year in 1882 The IPY brought together researchers from multiple countries with the aim of undertaking systematic and coordinated experiments and observations in the Arctic and Antarctic Harsh conditions intense isolation and acute danger inevitably impacted the making and communicating of scientific knowledge At the same time changes in ideas about what it meant to be an authoritative observer of natural phenomena were linked to tensions in imperial ambitions national identities and international collaborations of the IPY Through a focused study of travel narratives in the British Danish Canadian and American contexts Nanna Katrine L ders Kaalund uncovers not only the transnational nature of Arctic exploration but also how the publication and reception of literature about it shaped an extreme environment its explorers and their scientific practices She reveals how far beyond the metropole in the vast area we understand today as the North American and Greenlandic Arctic explorations and the narratives that followed ultimately influenced the production of field science in the nineteenth century Christian Churches and Their Peoples, 1840-1965

Nancy Christie,Michael Gauvreau,2010-12-15 Religious institutions values and identities are fundamental to understanding the lived experiences of Canadians in the nineteenth and early twentieth century Christian Churches and Their Peoples an inter denominational study considers how Christian churches influenced the social and cultural development of Canadian society across regional and linguistic lines By shifting their focus beyond the internal dynamics of institutions Nancy Christie and Michael Gauvreau address broad social issues such as the ways in which religion is linked to changing mores the key role of laypeople in shaping churches and the ways in which First Nations peoples both appropriated and resisted missionary teachings With an important analysis of popular religious ideas and practices Christian Churches and Their Peoples demonstrates that the cultural authority and regulatory practices of religious institutions both affirmed and opposed the personal religious values of Canadians ultimately facilitating their elaboration of personal ethnic gender and national identities Evangelical Studies Bulletin ,2005 Great Plains Quarterly ,2006 The Book Review Digest ,2006
